LIGHTS AND WATER EXTENSION TALKED BY DECATUR BOARD

Fire Protection For Western District Is Discussed

LIGHT PLAN IS GIVEN COUNCIL

New Arrangement To Provide Lights All Over the City

Extension of light and fire hydrant service were discussed at length by the Decatur city council, in regular session last night.

Mayor Nelson laid before the aldermanic board the proposal of the Alabama Power company for another rearrangement of street facilities to give service to a much wider area. Under the proposed rearrangement the city of Decatur would obtain quite a few more lights than are now used.

It was suggested during the discussion that the rearrangement of lights would accomplish much toward lighting all of the outlying sections of the city. At present in the central sections of the city, street lights are on every intersection in accordance with a new lighting contract worked out some time ago, to give maximum service. The new plan would not disturb any of the present lights, it was understood, but would enable the city to place street lights in many sections not now lighted, being more or less an extension of the present plan.

The council also discussed the question of providing fire hydrant protection for that part of the city of Decatur lying west of Ninth avenue.

W. R. Speer, local manager of the Alabama Water company, was asked to procure all of the necessary data in regard to the installation of a six-inch main into that section in lieu of the two-inch main which is used at present.

The installation of the six-inch main would permit the installation of fire hydrants to protect the residences and store buildings in that area and possibly would be the indirect cause of substantial fire insurance reductions.

F. WEAVER BUYS HARDAGE INTEREST

Albany Broom Works Now Employing a Force of Seven

J. F. Weaver has purchased the 1 shares of stock owned by the late A. A. Hardage in the Albany broom works, he announced today and intends to start expansion at an early date. Mr. Weaver has been the manager of the factory for several years and has guided the plant along a successful path.

The broom plant will begin the manufacture of 30 dozen brooms a day with the coming Tuesday. A force of seven men is now employed in the manufacture, while the selling end is taken care of by one salesman and jobbers in Huntsville and Birmingham. The principal areas of distribution now center in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

A carload of Lindsay broom, estimated at 26,000 pounds is being unloaded today and taken to the plant.

TWO ARE LEFT IN RACE FOR MAYOR

Carswell and Malone Will Battle Race Through 20th

With but two candidates in the race for Mayor of the city of Albany today began the drawing of political lines with reference to the candidacies of Dr. F. L. Carswell, the incumbent, and B. L. Malone, prominent Albany business man.

W. A. Britain, the third candidate in the race, authorized his withdrawal from the ranks on Thursday, according to a statement made today by City Clerk Henry Harung.

Mr. Britain made no statement in connection with his decision to withdraw from the race, but will probably explain his position to the friends who were backing him at an early date.

Political observers predicted to lay that the battle in the race for the city's chief executive will be warmly contested, both the candidates having numerous friends who have entered the political arena in their behalf.

CONGRESSMAN TO DELIVER ADDRESS ON LAWRENCE DAY

Judge Almon Will Be Heard at Fair On September 23

BLACK UNABLE TO BE PRESENT

Democratic Nominee Regrets Inability To Attend Fair

Congressman Edward B. Almon will be the principal speaker at the North Alabama fair on the morning of Thursday, September 23, it was announced here today by the fair committee.

The date will be Lawrence County Day and it was particularly gratifying to the members of the committee to be able to announce as speaker for that occasion one of Lawrence County's distinguished sons.

In accepting the invitation to deliver an address here, Congressman Almon wrote that he is deeply interested in the success of the fair and hoped that large crowds would be in attendance throughout the week.

An invitation to deliver an address here was extended to Judge Hugo L. Black, democratic nominee for the senate, but in a letter to the fair secretary, he expressed regret that he could not attend. He declared that if the fair dates had been a little later in the year, he would have been glad to accept the invitation, but the dates as selected made it impossible for him to come to the Twin Cities at this time.

Preparations for the fair continued today, with prospects very bright for a most successful event.

Advertising matter in behalf of the fair is being sent over a wide territory and it was believed the fair will attract visitors from all sections of the Tennessee Valley. Reports from Lawrence and Limestone counties indicate the agricultural exhibits from those two counties will be unusually good and elaborate arrangements are being made for Morgan County's exhibit of farm products.

LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR TRAPPED MEN

Last Miner Rescued Fears Remaining Ones Will Die

TAHONA, Okla., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Little hope for the 16 or 17 men trapped in entry number 71-2, west of mine number 29, of the Superior Smokeless Coal company, at Tahona, by a gas explosion at 8:30 o'clock this morning, was expressed at 11:30 o'clock by Lee Carter, last miner brought out of the mine at that time.

Carter was almost overcome by gas fumes when a rescue party carried him to safety. He had small hopes for the men remaining in the mine, he said.

The explosion occurred just before the men who operated the mining machines went down into the mine. Just how many men were working in the mine at the time of the explosion has not been learned yet, it was stated.

Large numbers of miners were on hand to aid in the rescue work and no outside help will be needed, it was said. Six mine rescue workers are being sent into the work at a time. No information that there is fire in the workings has reached the outside world, telephone operators say.

Dave Griffith, superintendent at the mines, declared he had no information to give out "until we get the facts in the case." Griffith declared he did not know how many men were in the workings or whether any of them were dead.

It was learned from other sources, however, that eight to 16 men might be entombed in the west entry to the mine.

Observers and miners attribute the explosion to accumulated mine gas, although mine officials and state mine inspector declared that only an investigation will reveal the cause of the blast.

FOURTEEN CARS IN RECORD SHIPMENT BRICK FROM HERE

Decatur Brick Cor. To Aid Construction In Birmingham

BUSINESS ON THE INCREASE

Volume of Freight on Upgrade, Declares Ellen Agent

What is probably a record shipment for any local manufacturing plant in any one day was established here by the Decatur Brick Corporation, which sent fourteen cars of brick to the Birmingham district in one working day this week.

A total of more than 30 cars of bricks were loaded and sent out by the same company this week.

The record-breaking Birmingham shipment totaled nearly 1,000,000 pounds and means that the Albany-Decatur district was contributing something in the neighborhood of 150,000 brick to the construction program now underway in the Magic City area.

The fourteen cars were loaded, switched and sent out over the Louisville and Nashville in a single day, those responsible for the record shipment receiving congratulations over their work.

Reflecting the expansion of the local district, Milton Andrews, local agent of the Louisville and Nashville railroad company, announced today that the August freight shipments handled by his company here showed a substantial gain over August one year ago.

Mr. Andrews expected the opening of the fall season, with the arrival of retail stocks and the beginning of cotton handling to show further increases over the corresponding periods last year. He believed that business conditions here are fundamentally sound and that prosperity will continue.

NO. 3 CRASHES CAR AT NEW CROSSING

Car Hurlled 40 Feet at North Hartselle Highway Point

Southbound L. and N. train No. 3 crashed a Ford car, driven by Dr. Sam Ashworth at the north Hartselle crossing this afternoon, hurling the car 40 or 50 feet. The lone occupant of the car escaped with only minor injuries, it is understood. The accident occurred on the first day the highway crossing was opened.

Reports from Hartselle indicate that Dr. Ashworth put on his brakes and brought his car to a halt, thinking that the train was approaching from the south rather than from the north.

The main street crossing was opened today for the first time.

REPUBLICAN CHIEF VICTIM OF BOMB

House Is Wrecked But Members of Family Escape Unhurt

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The Westside home of Morris Eller, Cook county republican chieftain, was wrecked early today by a bomb.

Members of the family were hurled from their beds by the blast, which demolished the interior of the building and broke windows for blocks around, but were unhurt.

The bomb was set off in a side door-way of the apartment. Persons in an upper apartment and in the adjacent home of Joseph Ginsberg also were thrown from bed.

Police said the charge was one of the most powerful ever set here. Authorities first were inclined to think the bombs had been intended for the home of Ginsberg, a professional bondsman, who, three months ago, was kidnapped, shot and thrown out of an automobile in the outskirts.

Later, however, they turned to the theory that political enmity was responsible.

SUICIDE FOLLOWS MURDER CLOSELY AFTER AUTO TOUR

Brooklyn Operator Is Shot As She Sleeps In Lexington, Ky.

THREE PISTOL SHOTS HEARD

2 Bodies Found When Third Member Of Party Screams

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Kelly C. Kirtly, 70, wealthy restaurant and hotel man, who formerly lived in Fayette county, killed himself shortly before seven o'clock this morning in the bathroom adjoining his room in a hotel here, after he had slain Miss Mildred McDaniel, 26, of 2027 East Ninth street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The girl, a pretty red-haired telephone operator of Brooklyn, who had accompanied Kirtly on a motor trip to Lexington, was shot while she was asleep in the same bed with Miss Alma Gregory, of the same address in Brooklyn.

The two young women had registered at the hotel Wednesday afternoon as Alma and Mildred Gregory, both of New York City.

According to Alma Gregory they posed as cousins and Kirtly as their uncle. The two had quarreled Thursday night over the size of a stone in a diamond ring which Kirtly had given Mildred, Alma declared.

Shortly before seven o'clock this morning, Alma declared, she was awakened by the sound of a pistol shot. She sprang up to see Kirtly standing beside the bed with a pistol in his hand, while Mildred lay still beside her, a stream of blood trickling on the pillow from a hole in her head.

"Mr. Kirtly went back into the bathroom and I saw him through the door as he raised the pistol to his head. I started for the hall door and as I did, I heard another pistol report," the girl said.

"I called for help. When I got out in the hall and several people came out of their rooms. I started back in our room and as I did so, I could see Mr. Kirtly prostrate on the bathroom floor, fumbling around for the pistol. He put his hand on the gun and I turned and started back out. Then I heard another shot."

The examination of Kirtly's body showed that he had two bullet wounds, one in the right side of his head and one over the heart.

Two written messages, which indicated Kirtly planned the killing and suicide was found in his room. One was termed a will and was addressed to Thomas B. Adams, of Brighton, whom he named executor. The other was addressed to a Lexington undertaker and contained funeral directions.

"Don't Marry a Chorus Girl"
--By a Stage-Wife

And—"Don't Marry
an Actor!"
--by a Girl Who Did

"DON'T marry an actor—he won't be able to support you."
"Don't marry an actress—you just can't domesticate 'em."

These are two pieces of advice from two women who ought to know, for they are both of the stage and both have had a bootless swing at matrimony.

Gladys Pelly, of New York, and wherever stock engagements lead her, recently sued her husband, Farrell Pelly, for divorce. Gladys had been drawing down her $300 a week regularly in stock—hard work, study and rehearsal, but steady—and Farrell, she alleged, had been adhering so closely to Broadway that his engagements were few and far between. Whatever he earned, he didn't contribute to the common household, said Gladys, "enough to support either one of us." It just wasn't "comfortable for me to support him any longer," Gladys told the judge.

Actors, concerning whose big salaries the public is fed up in figures four ciphers fat, sometimes don't earn as much as people think. Often there's a long time between jobs. Then there may be weeks of rehearsal without pay on a part in a hopeful new play, and it falls flat. More jobless weeks, and—well, if you contemplate marrying an actor, says Gladys Pelly, consider the possibility that you'll have to support him.

And, boys, if you would go a-Maying among the chorus flowers, take a tip from a Chicago show girl who tried matrimony and now admits it's all wrong for footlight flitters.

"You can't domesticate a chorus girl with an aversion for dishwater," says Mrs. Jane Gardener, who just won a divorce from her young husband, for whom she gave up the stage. "I could dance all day and half the night when I was rehearsing, but scrubbing the kitchen floor lamed me for a week. Chorus girls should never marry."

When Her Make-Up Is 40 Per Cent Theatrical Ambition, 30 Per Cent Love of Excitement, 20 Per Cent Conjugality and 10 Per Cent Domesticity, the Stage Beauty Does Not Qualify for Matrimony.

Reserve Banks Handling Over
$12,000,000 Year, Says Report

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—More than $12,000,000,000 passes over the counters of the Federal Reserve Banks annually, according to a statement issued by the reserve board.

The entire volume of money in circulation has an average turnover through the reserve banks of once in every five months, since the amount handled every year by the system is about two and one half times the average circulation in the country.

"Among the services performed by the Federal Reserve System, the supplying of currency to the country in accordance with its needs is one of the most important," an official statement of the board said.

"It is to the 12 reserve banks, with their 23 branches, three agencies and three currency depositories, that the banks of the country apply for additional currency when a demand for it reaches them through their customers. It is to the reserve banks with their subsidiary offices that the currency is returned when the amount in circulation exceeds the current demand."

Old Money Exchanged
Worn out and unfit currency of all kinds is for the most part presented to the reserve banks and there exchanged for new and clean notes. In supplying clean currency to the community the reserve banks act not only in their capacity as note issuing institutions, but also as fiscal agents for the United States treasury, performing the function of sub-treasuries, whose place they have taken.

Under the federal reserve act, currency in the tills of member banks does not count as reserve and the entire legal reserves required against the deposit liabilities are carried as balances at the reserve banks.

"Since commercial banks, as profit making institutions, do not as a rule leave any considerable volume of their resources unnecessarily unproductive, it is the practice of member banks to carry in their own vaults only such an amount of currency as is required by the day to day needs of the customers," the statement said.

"Any surplus above this amount is sent to the reserve banks to be credited to the members' reserve account. When, on the other hand, the demand for currency at the member banks increases and cash in their tills is reduced by withdrawals on the part of customers in excess of cash deposits, the member banks apply to the reserve banks for currency to be charged against their reserve balances.

Under existing conditions, it was explained, the general public like the member banks, keep on hand only such an amount of cash as is needed for pocket money, and payroll requirements. With the grow-

When She Took Friends Advice and Tried The Great Herbal Remedy
Known As Herb Juice

"I feel that I made a very wise move when I at last listened to the advice of one of my friends and started taking your wonder-herb extract known as Herb Juice, because it has certainly relieved me of a stubborn case of constipation and dizzy headaches of years standing," said Miss Clara Feuchet who resides at 308 South High street, Belleville, Ill., when she called to see the special representative at Reis Drug Store very recently.

In further relating her story of her condition before she had taken the great herbal remedy Miss Feuchet said, "for a number of years I have been a victim of the dreaded malady, constipation and from this badly constipated condition suffered a great deal from violent headaches which caused me to be very dizzy, nervous and irritable and was very restless at night. I tried all the different kinds of medicines and remedies that I could hear of, but without anything more than temporary relief. At last one day a friend of mine who had taken your great herb laxative insisted that I try it and said that it would do me good. I went straightway and got a bottle and before I had finished taking this great remedy I could see a decided change in my condition. I continued taking it and today I can truthfully say that I feel better in every respect than I have in years. My constipation has been entirely eliminated. I never suffer any more from those splitting headaches and I can now sleep the whole night through and arise in the mornings feeling physically fit to perform my daily tasks. I can't say enough in praise of this great remedy to justify the real genuine good it has done me, and I am truly glad to make this public statement in the hope that other sufferers may be induced to try it, because I am sure they will derive the same wonderful benefit from its use that I have."

TODAY 12 Years Ago

From The Daily of
September 3, 1914.

John A. Thomason has returned from Nashville.

H. B. Cagle is in Sheffield on business.

Will Wyker, Lamar Cartwright and Harold Hildreth left this morning for a ten days camp at Blue Water, Ala.

The Birmingham Ledger of yesterday carried in its society columns a handsome picture of one of Decatur's most lovely young girls, Miss Helen Almon.

Mr. Boswell and family of Nashville, after visiting his brother, William Boswell, has returned to that city.

The largest mosquito on record is not half so boring as the fellow who thinks all his neighbors should live like he does.

Crops in this county got a slow start, so did the county less than ten years ago, but look at us move now.

"Worry kills; work cures" is one of Batchelor's bright buttons in the Dothan Eagle. Too many people assume the position the cure is worse than the disease.

About all that can be said of Rudolph Valentino now is that the public will be very glad when the last sad rites have been said and the newspapers are through describing the morbid scene.

Albany-Decatur merchants are looking for a steady increase in fall business, they will get it, too; they are looking for it in the right way. They are giving values for money, service and friendliness for trading prestige. You can't beat that combination.

Morgan county stands about ninth in the valuation of wealth in the counties of this state. When our people get to the place they have been searching for these many years Morgan will not have long to run before taking in the distance between this county and the other leaders of the state.

THREE SCHOOL DISTRICTS CAST TWO VOTES AGAINST TAX.

Is Morgan county advancing? Look at these figures: Danville, No. 7, for school tax 34, against 0; Round Top, No. 21, for tax 9, against tax 0; Venice, No. 71, for tax 14, against 2.

Could such a record have been made ten years ago, or even five years ago. Hardly, Morgan county was not advancing so rapidly at that time as this county is advancing now. Morgan school districts place taxes upon their own shoulders with as little difficulty as if someone else was footing the bill. Morgan is learning the value of brains and education, Morgan is learning that education is given only when every fellow pays his share, Morgan is learning that the special school tax is an estimable beginning.

THREE GOOD SIZED PROJECTS FOR ALBANY-DECATUR THIS MONTH.

Seems like the whole Tennessee Valley has been waiting around for September to come, many of the business firms have waited skeptically through the summer months not daring to make predictions of business, buying cautiously and wondering if the next summer month was going to be better than the last.

However, the purpose of this article is not alone from a business standpoint, although each of the particular projects to be described and discussed are to deal directly or indirectly with business conditions and results.

Within this month there are three major projects to be put across safely for these cities. First the Chautauqua, then the North Alabama Fair and later the annual Kiwanis Country Store. That makes a heavy outlay of activity within these cities this month, but an outlay that will have direct bearing upon business as well as civic and educational affairs.

The Chautauqua comes here under the auspices of the Travellers' Protective Association, percentages of the money taken in at the door to go to the expansion of that organization's work. Upon Albany-Decatur will depend the degree of success attained by the association from a financial standpoint. Then too, the Chautauqua always provides a better class of entertainment, striving to prove to the American people that they can enjoy legitimate amusement without the injection of actions bordering upon the suggestive. So, then, there are two things from us to prove during this coming Chautauqua: first, that we are loyal to the Travellers' Protective Association, believe in the good accomplished by that band of progressive citizens in civic affairs and secondly, that the people of these cities will cater to a higher class of entertainment in just as great numbers as attend amusements of other types.

Regarding the North Alabama Fair coming at a little later date in September, Albany-Decatur has never had a fair, Albany-Decatur has never had the opportunity to actually place agriculture upon the highest plane, therefore this is the first opportunity to show the people from over the agricultural sections of Morgan, Lawrence and Limestone counties that Albany-Decatur, as a logical center for activities and trading facilities, is interested in what agriculture has to offer. Plans for the fair are looking better every day and there seems to be no reason why that institution cannot become permanent. Whether it will become an annual affair will depend upon the support it receives this year. Whether Albany-Decatur is going to enjoy an increase in agricultural trade will likewise be evidenced by the numbers of town people who evince interest in county and North Alabama exhibits. Remember, this is an Albany-Decatur fair, backed by such civic organizations as the Kiwanis club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, it is your fair and it is up to you to see that it is patronized. Those days of recreation and pleasure fit well into the Albany-Decatur fall program in marking the first actual effort here to encourage agriculture.

The latter part of this month brings the annual Kiwanis Country Store, an institution already well known having been bountifully patronized by merchants with their contributions and the public with its buying within the past few years. The Country Store has always been a success, this year the Kiwanis Club is attempting to make it bigger in a successful way than ever. Committees have been working hard for some days now and are assembling the products which will be sold for charitable purposes. The proceeds of the store go entirely to charity, thus making your dime do the work in that civic unit which your dollar might do if you were contributing through individual channel. Albany-Decatur will support the store, Albany-Decatur has learned the actual worth of the institution and there will be no hesitancy.

So then there is much planned for this month, much for these cities to accomplish. The Daily predicts unlimited success for the three institutions and bids good will, friendliness and co-operative effort toward the organizations trying so hard now to assure that forthcoming success.

JURY SERVICE. IS IT PRACTICAL?

There comes a time in every man's life when he must serve on the jury. He serves for one of three causes: because he thinks it a patriotic duty, because he can't think up an excuse of sufficient merit to convince the judge that he should be excused, or else he has nothing else in the world to do and becomes a professional juror.

The writer has been stationed at the Morgan county courthouse for the past four days and though it has not been the first attempt at service, nevertheless it has been productive of considerable thought while sitting in the hall or in the courtroom waiting for the lawyers to announce ready, the witnesses to arrive, or the jury to be assembled.

The jury system is proved as the best system for settling disputes between parties, it is recognized usually as the last word in fairness for the opinions of twelve men rarely ever converge until careful consideration has been given to the matter at hand.

Yet after four days of service the juror is usually a disinterested party, about all he is interested in is getting through with the case before him and going home. While the same feeling of disinterestedness might be attributed to the lawyers, it is to be remembered that they are in the business of fighting cases and enter upon the next and the next without losing interest.

But, the juror, he usually worries over business affairs, feeling that he should be at his desk or whatever vocation he follows, thinking that the presiding judge might allow him to go without hampering the administering of justice to all parties concerned. In other words he finds that the law, one of the greatest institutions in his nation, has lost its appeal and the hum drum drone of attorneys' voices are nothing more or less than thorns in his flesh. So then he loses his regard for the law and its sovereignty.

It is all well to speak of such a condition, but what about the remedy for such an ailment? It is easily seen that if the juror becomes disgusted with the slow movement of the courts, laughs at serious points that mean a great deal to someone else and nothing to him, wishes he was at home when he should be listening to the evidence in the case, that some remedial measure should or could be provided.

Why not offer three day jury service? Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for one set of jurors and Thursday, Friday and Saturday for another set? Would that involve any more expense for the county? Would that mean that the court costs would be greater, it hardly seems practical to assume that additional costs would develop.

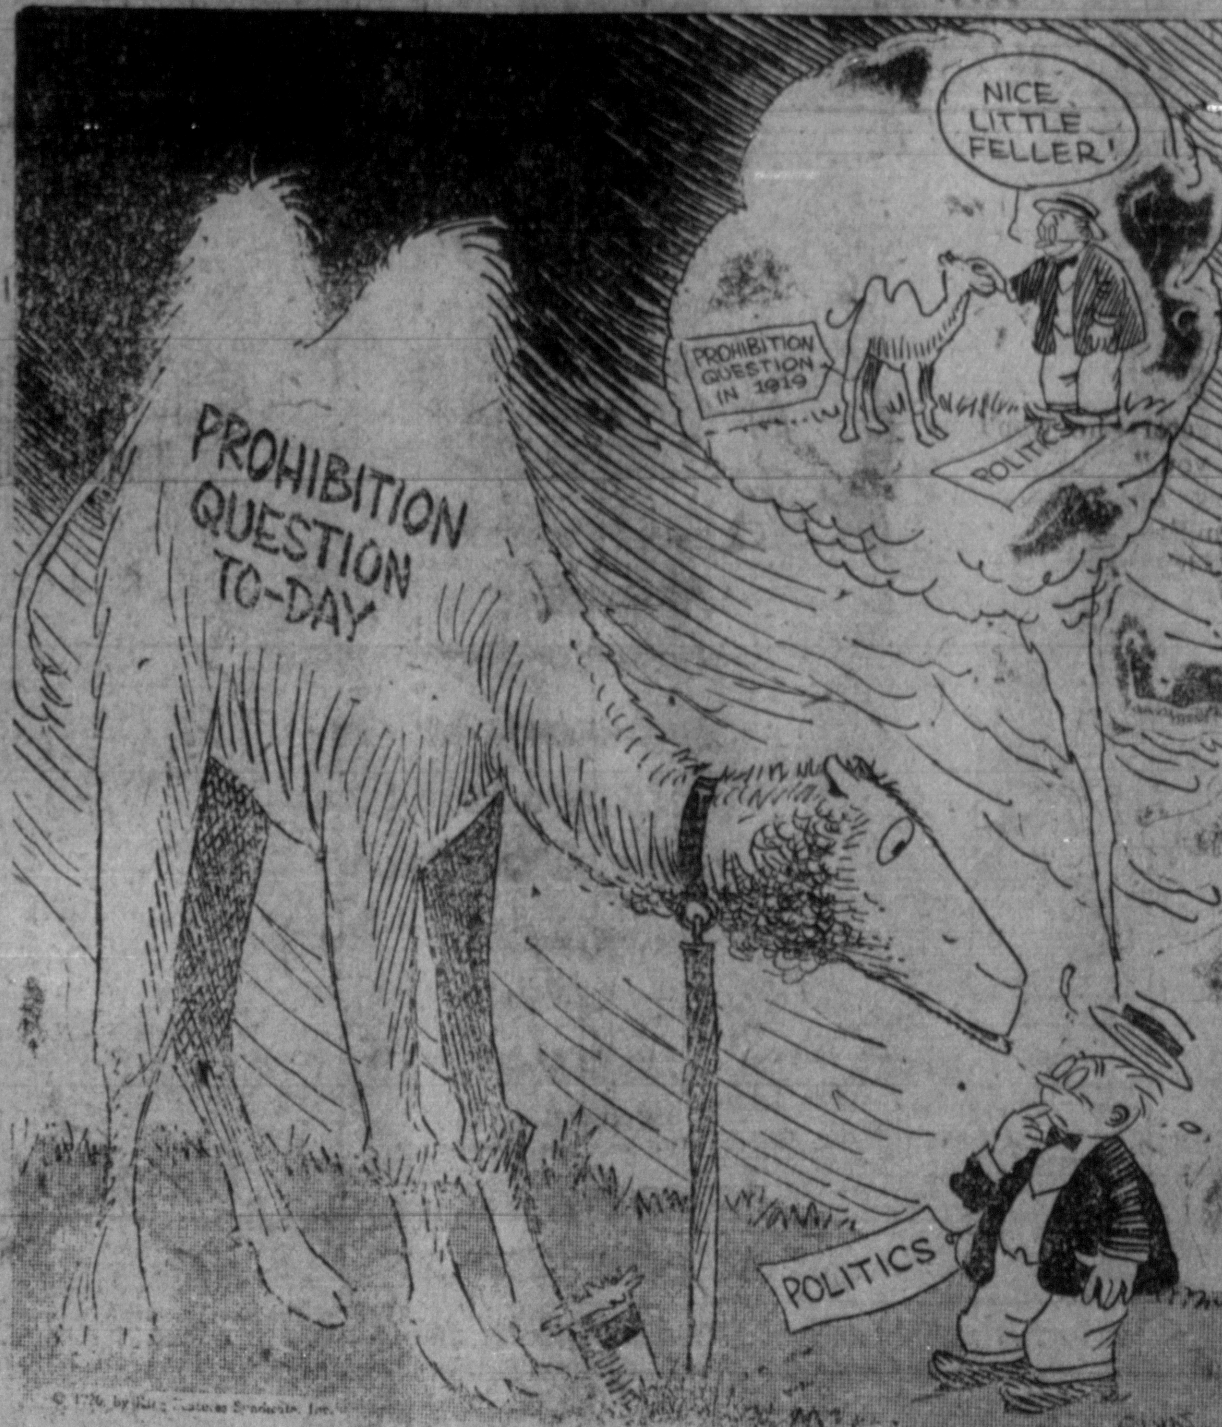

Certainly the presiding judge would not object to working six days in the week rather than five, certainly the lawyers arrayed against each other would be far better satisfied with the case out of the way rather than waiting until the coming term. Certainly the jurors would be greatly pleased at such an arrangement, for the majority of men do not feel that they can take so much time away from their business, they feel that a week spent on the jury is entirely out of the question.

It seems to the writer that a three-day jury term would be a far greater inducement to citizens to serve, realizing that they would not have to lose so great an amount of time from their business. Jurors would not become satiated with the idea, in that length of time that court business is nobody's business, they would not hesitate to serve the three days and serve with the view to giving the best decisions possible.

Some civil cases are admittedly small and yet in principle they are great, for it means the administering of justice and if that justice is not administered then someone has been hurt, someone has been taught to mistrust the law and the jury system. The three day term will allow jurors to concentrate on the business that they are engaged in at that time, not the business they have down town.

The judges and lawyers it seems would be far better satisfied, there would be no increase in court costs. The plan sounds more practical from a business point of view than the plan now in force.

THE police wrote down, "About seventy-five years of age, name unknown, white, female." And that is as much interest as the world takes in a woman, old and poor, and no longer fit for hard work.

THE Sultan of Sulu is happy under Uncle Sam's rule. What's more if we release the Philippine Islands from American control, the Sultan says he and his Moros will fight the Filipinos to the last gasp. The Sultan, who has his wives and his religion and carries a 45-automatic at his belt undisturbed, was assured, confidentially, that he, a Mohammedan, need not hesitate to deal with us, because the United States is a nation with no official religion. That is the assurance that Thomas Jefferson once gave to an earlier, more important Mohammedan Sultan.

FRANK FARRINGTON, represented union coal miners in Illinois for twelve years and got five thousand dollars a year. Now he leaves the union, goes to work for the Peabody Coal company, with interests naturally opposed to the union, and he gets twenty-five thousand dollars a year.

CORPORATIONS pay well, and are grateful. Unions and the public pay little and are ungrateful. That is why the ablest men, lawyers and public officials usually belong to corporations.

A cynical corporation lawyer said, "The only favor a little man can do me, is to get run over, so that I may defend the corporation that runs over him."

A GERMAN has now conquered the channel, the sixth man to do so, and his record beats that of Gertrude Ederle by more than an hour. Henceforth channel swimmers must find their reward in good exercise. The world will offer no special rewards, praise or publicity. Webb and Ederle will be remembered, the others forgotten.

SOMEONE said it was a brave man that first swallowed an oyster. But subsequent oyster eaters could not expect praise.

In New Jersey a bootlegger's still is found with a big supply of interesting whiskey. Analysis one part of ether to four parts of alcohol. The ether causes prompt stupefaction. That particular whiskey is called "undertaker's delight." Other bootleg whiskey deserves the same name and yet millions buy it and drink it.

If prohibition and bootlegging accomplish nothing else, they will reduce the number of fools. Actual living picture is the greatest advertisement. A well planned religious moving picture might do more than many sermons.

THE Rev. Dr. H. H. McQuilkin of Orange, N. J., says religion is not for the highbrow, or the rich man. "The spirit of salvation is for the innocent." That makes the advertising problem the more difficult, for the rich are needed to finance the campaign, and the highbrows to write it.

FRAUDULENT bankruptcies, organized with special managers and a vocabulary of their own, cost the nation two hundred and fifty millions a year. Fraudulent stock, bogus deals, oil wells, mines, real estate and other get rich quick frauds cost the gullible public more than a billion a year. Bootleg whiskey takes another billion and many lives. The miracle is that any of the people have anything left for old age.

The cost of living has come down by three and four tenths per cent since November, 1925, according to the National Industrial Conference board. Have you noticed it? The change is due to cheaper food prices, which means that the farmers have made living cheaper by getting less for their work. Who can say what the cost of living is, or ought to be? Americans waste more than enough to feed and clothe 100,000,000 people, in another part of the globe.

SACRED HARP ORGANIZATION DATES FARTHER BACK THAN MEMORY OF 63-YEAR LEADER

"You want to know about the Sacred Harp organization, where it was founded and what is the mission?" said T. J. Denson as he looked straight into the eyes of a Daily reporter seated across the desk from him. Professor Denson is the Lawrenceburg, Tenn., leader of Sacred Harp music who is here for the purpose of leading the North Alabama assembly of thousands of people on next Saturday and Sunday at the Morgan courthouse, in an annual meeting.

"Why sonny, it's going to be some little bit to tell you all about this organization," said the 63-year old leader as he settled back in his chair.

Mr. Denson has been here several weeks, leading singing of old rural familiar hymns at Primitive Baptist church, Albany and is remaining here to enjoy the "spiritual feast of song and religion," on Saturday and Sunday. J. T. Ryan, Albany chairman, has taken all necessary steps to make the two day session a success and has received unlimited support from the business classes of these cities.

First Body in 1844.

The original organization began back in 1844, according to Mr. Denson, when people gathered there for the purpose of founding the organization. The first book was published that year by B. F. White of Atlanta. The book was revised in 1849, again in 1859 and then a third time in 1869, it being the wish of the publisher. Mr. White passed away and the old book stood for 42 years.

In 1906 the committees were again brought together, 22 members being included in the assemblage for the revision. Mr. Denson was a member of that body known as the United Musical Association. The book was not compiled until 1911 and was recognized as "disseminated harmony."

Teacher Since 1882

In reply to the question of the length of his service Mr. Denson declared he had been in service since 1882, having taught out of the old book as far back as that date. He has been teaching from one to eight schools each year since that time.

Every bit of the music is inspired, said the grained teacher in his deep bass voice.

"The old hymns were inspired," said Mr. Denson, "and they reach a tender spot," he said as he touched the bosom of his shirt. "Hit! get it," he said as he indicated his heart with a tap of his hand on his breast. "You can feel it, instead of through the ears. Why, the old book will never die people have been singing these old songs for over 200 years."

Member Qualification

"Why anybody can join the organization," replied the teacher to the question of membership qualification, "anybody who is spiritually inclined, who is a lover of music and is not an habitual swearer or an habitual drunkard. "Just anybody can't get in and sing with us, they have got to be clean folks on the inside."

"I've been at this singing since 1876, I've walked 15 miles to get to one of these singings, carried my Sunday shoes under my arm, not many boys could do that today."

"I can remember when I used to study by the light of pine knots when I used to lie before the first and study the music in my own way." The old gentleman's eyes filled for the moment as he spoke of his mother. "Mother used to mould candles together that I might see how to study this work, you see they had been in the work before me, dad had two brothers who led the singings."

Serving Lord

"I'm just serving the Lord the best I know how, I like the modern book, but the Sacred Harp book is the best. Music will never be revealed to us till we reach the glory world."

The Denson family has always been engaged in the Sacred Harp work, the services of the family dating back to over 1000 years. Professor Denson's name is recognized over the southland where his accomplishments of leadership and his ability as a singer who can sway great audiences is recognized.

MRS. MORROW AND MISS MORROW ENTERTAIN

Beautiful in appointments were the morning and afternoon bridge parties that Mrs. Eugene Morrow and daughter Miss Elizabeth Ann gave Thursday for Miss Marjorie Pointer, the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Pointer, whose marriage to Mr. E. B. Garner will be an event of September seventh. The lower floor of Mrs. Morrow's home on Lafayette street was thrown together on this occasion and decorated with the season's flowers. Cupids attired in bride's costumes were placed around the rooms and suspended over Miss Pointer's chair at head table.

Miss Frances Mason, in a girl's costume of white met the guests and led them to the reception room where Mrs. Morrow graciously received in blue georgette in the morning and a flowered creation in the afternoon. She introduced them to the honorees, whose morning frock was of channel red while in the afternoon she was unusually pretty in a black frock trimmed with rhinestones. Miss Elizabeth Ann Morrow—a striking brunette beauty, was attired in gowns of roses for the first party and a gold and crimson frock for the second. Mrs. Pointer, mother of the bride elect, completed the receiving line wearing a yellow costume for morning and a blue cut velvet in the afternoon. All had shoulder carriages of roses and sweet peas. EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

By Annette Bradshaw.

COATS with the upper part bloused are now definitely established as one of the foremost fall fashions. This brings into prominence the blouse, with its loose-fitting blouse top and straight line from the waist down, shown at the left in the accompanying sketch, and the other type of coat which shows fullness in the waist and the lower section as well, with the beltline drawn in to fit the hips.

The coat at the left is of rich dark brown broadcloth with its deep rolled collar of dark Eastern flannel. Notice that the sleeves flare slightly, too, to carry out the impression of loose, easy lines in the upper part of the coat. Above the cuffs of fur are shown embroidered borders in dark brown, red and dull gold.

Bottle green wool crepe, warmly interlined, makes the coat at the right, with brown fur forming the long collar and bell cuffs. This material lends itself well to shirring, which appears in an effective down band to form the belt.

Belts, by the way, are being featured in a large number of fall coats, lending a note of interest after several seasons in which most of the coats were straight. Sometimes the belt goes all the way around the coat, then again it appears in sections, perhaps at both sides, or perhaps at the front or back only.

This does not mean that the perfectly straight coat has disappeared. It is still shown, and retains all its former smartness.

FASHION NOTES

PARIS.—There may be a time when a bathing suit was just a bathing suit and nothing more. But that was long ago before the days of the bob, the Cocktail frock and thousand and one other modern creations.

Today, the bathing costume is really a costume, as smart and dainty as any dinner frock and nearly always very gay in color. It comes in all the smartest materials and is very often beaded and beaded in sumptuous fashion. It is also fitted out with the usual accessories, vanity-bag, flower on the shoulder, pretty shoes, jewelry and becoming cap, all of which are in bright-colored rubber.

The new waterproof materials are light and practical. The knickers are as brief as possible and the tunic, if any, as short as the law allows. Arms are bare and shoulders decollete. Some of the shops are using patterned materials, others plain ones piped and embroidered with another color. Nearly all of the smart ones seen at Deauville and Le Touquet are worn with a narrow leather belt, usually white. Mademoiselle Smolinska has been seen on the beach in marine waterproof crepe smartly draped on the side and embroidered in corals and pearls and ordered in corals and pearls and ordered.

A smart jersey suit is cut a bit longer than usual and flares a trifle at the hips. The white bands which trim it are cleverly placed down the under arm seams, a device that slenderizes the line. The same idea is carried out in the knickers.

Drecol is using white jersey cut on closely fitted lines with bands of dark blue placed at the bottom and in a zig-zag pattern on the blouse.

Parasols to go with the costume are making the beaches bright every day. One in natural-colored linen is covered with weird cubistic shapes in brilliant red, black, white and green, with a long handle of beige enamel. Some very smart ones are being made in raffia and fine rubber.

is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

His father's warning—"Take women's love scornfully—and forget!"—as made Juan the world's greatest lover. His eye is checked by Jadonetta, Adriana, Varanese, seeing her, he reforms, but incurs her enmity of infamous Lucretia, who loves him, and Ursula, her kinswoman, who covets Adriana. Circumstances destroy Juan's faith in Adriana. He becomes cynical again. He kills Ursula. Adriana flees; her father is killed and she is flung into a dungeon, retaining Lucretia's offer of freedom. He will give her freedom. Trying to escape, he hears the jailers crying—perhuman effort that must be made.

Clinging to the alms, stones of the prison, Juan strikes back his head and laughs at the dangers that lay ahead. For he knew that he could win through them, that he would be carried along by the strength of the love which he had tried to kill; that it had tortured and tormented him so it would help him also.

Adriana's love had changed him made a new man of him; he doubts if her had made him mean, capable of such cruelty as that which he was inflicting on the Marchesa Rinaldi.

And now this new shining

Leighton Loses To Black Sox

The Decatur Black Sox turned back the Leighton All-Stars Thursday in a hard fought game by a score of 2-0. The game was a fast affair throughout the nine innings with both pitchers working well. Errors in the first and seventh innings gave the Black Sox their two runs, snappy fielding, including two fast double plays, killing the visiting team's chances to score. Kimball hit a long fly through the outfield, getting three bases on the error and bringing in the second run after errors by the Leighton infield gave Decatur another run in the first.

Batteries for the game were: Leighton, Burk and Henkins; Black Sox: Boone and Martin.

The two teams will meet again today in Malone Park at 3:45 o'clock. The batteries for today will be: Leighton, Braly and Henkins; Black Sox; Johnson and Boone.

Alexander And Rhem Turn Back The Cubs In Duo, Alex Strong In First

Grover Alexander and Flint Rhem were the heroes of the double Card victory yesterday in Chicago when the Cards played like champions to capture a pair of tilts 2-0 and 9-1. The double victory while Pittsburgh and Cincinnati remained idle gave the Cardinals a two game lead over the Reds and a three game lead over the Pirates.

Grover Alexander the former Cub hurler who was sold for $4,000 reaped revenge on his former team mates in his first appearance in Chicago. He let the Cubs down with three scattered hits, while he led the attack which brought victory in the first game when he doubled into the overflow crowd in left field.

This blow was followed by Douthett's triple and Southworth's double for the only scores of the game.

In the second contest Rhem kept Cub hits well scattered. The Cubs lone run resulted from Hartnett's double and two infield outs. The league leaders bounced their hits off three Cub pitchers, Hornsby contributing a home run with a man on base during the assault. Great fielding plays by Southworth, Hornsby, Thevenow and Bottomley aided the Card flinger.

More than 31,000 jammed into the park, despite the intermittent sprinkles that worried the crowd, but failed to slow play.

The games were the only tilts played in the National.

Rain held the boards in the American league with the exception of the Detroit-St. Louis game where the Tigers pounded their way through to a victory. The Tigers took the verdict 6-3 with 14 hits.

In the Southern the same old story was told, the Barons lost and the Pels won. Down at Rickwood Park the bugs were convinced that a young man by the name of Francis knew his stuff in the chunking line. He chunked at the Barons all afternoon, chunked sufficiently to let 'em down with seven blows and a total of two runs. The Crackers were pounding Curley Ogden all the while for 11 hits and seven runs.

The Pels just doubled the Bears count 18-9 in a free hitting contest down on the gulf coast. Tucker hit two home runs with a man on base each time. The game put the Pels the same old seven game margin in front.

Memphis downed Little Rock 5-3 and drew near the Barons. Lookouts beat the Vol win streak 10-6, Eddie Lewis getting three hits. The Vols had won eight straight.

Gil Reese who will be remembered long after the Commodore has failed to tear up the earth as a gridiron champion, relates the following would be strategy just to demonstrate that all good football is not all good football, some of it is luck. Gil told a story of the Minnesota game. He said that on one play he was supposed to crouch down behind the line as the play was reeled off. He would

Blimp Weathers Severe Storm

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—(AP) — After riding out electrical and thunder storms during the greater part of the night in pitch darkness, Lieutenant W. A. Gray, and his crew of four, brought the army blimp TC-5 into safe landing at Scott Field, Belleville, Ind., near here shortly after six o'clock this morning.

It was the first anniversary of the Shenandoah disaster when that craft, much larger than the TC-5 buckled and crashed on Ohio hills. It brought to an end a night of uneasiness on the part of many interested in the TC-5's flight.
